ADRIATIC COAST

The cities on the Montenegrin coast will definitely seduce you with their charm, diversity and the Mediterranean air. From Ulcinj (which used to be a pirate town but today represents a tourist haven), Bar (a town rich in historic monuments, with the new, modern city center, port, marina and hotels), Budva (which represents the tourist metropolis of Montenegro, covering the area from Buljarica, through Petrovac and St. Stefan, all the way to Jaz beach), through Tivat (a beautiful, calm town), Kotor (protected by UNESCO as part of the world cultural heritage), up to Herceg Novi (an irresistible tourist town, rich in greenery, flowers, stairs and beautiful historic structures), each town tells a story of its own. In each one of them you can find restaurants with home-made food and fish specialties, cafés with beautiful terraces and excellent cocktails, hotels with pleasant staff and unforgettable views of the sea.

FEEL WILD BEATY

„WILD BEAUTY“ is the second name for Montenegro, which with 70% of its territory is covered by mountains.

Their average elevation is more than 2,000 m (about 250 peaks). The highest peak in Montenegro is Zla Kolata of the Prokletije with an altitude of 2534 m. One of the most famous peaks of Montenegro is Bobotov kuk on Mount Durmitor, which is located at an altitude of 2523 m. Peaking at 2534m, this is the roof of Montenegro, where profound massifs, otherworldly vistas and a picturesque smattering of old-school villages offer a literal and metaphorical breath of fresh air. The most unpredictable season in Montenegro is winter. Tourists can wear light coats on the shore, but in the North, the mountains can be covered by snow for some meters. Winter sports become popular in winter, such as downhill skiing and snowboarding. In Kolašin and Žabljak you can entirely enjoy these sports.
